Operative part of the judgment

The Court:

1. Sets aside points 2 and 3 of the operative part of the judgment of the General Court of the European Union of 30 March 2017, Greece v Commission (T-112/15, EU:T:2017:239) in so far as, first, the General Court dismissed the Hellenic Republic's action while limiting its examination to the correction for claim year 2008 that was imputed to the 2009 financial year as regards the financial correction of 5 % applied to aid under the second pillar of the common agricultural policy (CAP), which is dedicated to rural development, and not examining the correction for claim year 2008 that was imputed to the 2010 financial year in the sum of EUR 5 496 524,54 as regards the financial correction of 5 % applied to aid under the CAP's second pillar, dedicated to rural development, and, second, it made a decision as to costs;
2. Dismisses the appeal as to the remainder;
3. Annuls Commission Implementing Decision 2014/950/EU of 19 December 2014 on excluding from European Union financing certain expenditure incurred by the Member States under the Guarantee Section of the European Agricultural Guidance and Guarantee Fund (EAGGF), under the European Agricultural Guarantee Fund (EAGF) and under the European Agricultural Fund for Rural Development (EAFRD) in so far as it concerns the taking into account of Commission Implementing Decision 2013/214/EU of 2 May 2013 on excluding from European Union financing certain expenditure incurred by the Member States under the Guarantee Section of the European Agricultural Guidance and Guarantee Fund (EAGGF), under the European Agricultural Guarantee Fund (EAGF) and under the European Agricultural Fund for Rural Development (EAFRD) when calculating the amount of the correction of EUR 5 496 524,54, of the deduction of EUR 270175,45 and of the financial impact of EUR 5 226 349,09, which related to expenditure incurred by the Hellenic Republic in the sector of Rural Development EAFRD Axis 2 (2007-2013, area-related measures) and were imposed in respect of the 2010 financial year, on account of weaknesses in the Land Parcel Identification System (LPIS) and the on-the-spot checks (second pillar, claim year 2008);
4. Orders the Hellenic Republic and the European Commission to bear their own costs at first instance and on appeal;

Joined parties: Lietuvos Respublikos energetikos ministerija, UAB 'Baltpool'

Operative part of the judgment

1. Article 107(1) TFEU must be interpreted as meaning that the funds earmarked for financing a public interest service scheme, such as the public interest services in the electricity sector, constitute State resources within the meaning of that provision.

2. Article 107(1) TFEU must be interpreted as meaning that, when distribution and transport system operators receive monies intended to finance public interest services in the electricity sector in order to offset the losses sustained by reason of the obligation to purchase electricity at a fixed rate from certain electricity producers and to balance it out, that compensation constitutes an advantage, within the meaning of that provision, granted to the electricity producers.
3. Article 107(1) TFEU must be interpreted as meaning that, in circumstances such as those in the main proceedings, funds, such as the monies intended for certain providers of public interest services in the electricity sector, must be regarded as conferring a selective advantage, within the meaning of that provision, on those providers and must be regarded as liable to affect trade between Member States.
4. Article 107(1) TFEU must be interpreted as meaning that a State measure, such as the regime of public interest services in the electricity sector, must not be regarded as compensation for services provided by the recipient undertakings in order to discharge public service obligations, within the meaning of the judgment of 24 July 2003, Altmark Trans and Regierungspräsidium Magdeburg (C-280/00, EU:C:2003:415), unless the referring court establishes that any one of the public interest services in the electricity sector does in fact meet the four conditions set out in paragraphs 88 to 93 of that judgment.
5. Article 107(1) TFEU must be interpreted as meaning that a State measure, such as the regime relating to the provision of public interest services in the electricity sector, must be regarded as distorting or liable to distort competition.

Language of the case: German

Referring court

Amtsgericht Norderstedt

Parties to the main proceedings

Applicant: Christian Füllä

Defendant: Toolport GmbH

Operative part of the judgment

1. Article 3(3) of Directive 1999/44/EC of the European Parliament and of the Council of 25 May 1999 on certain aspects of the sale of consumer goods and associated guarantees must be interpreted as meaning that the Member States remain competent to establish the place where the consumer is required to make goods acquired under a distance contract available to the seller, for them to be brought into conformity in accordance with that provision. That place must be appropriate for ensuring that they can be brought into conformity free of charge, within a reasonable time and without significant inconvenience to the consumer, taking into account the nature of the goods and the purpose for which the consumer required the goods. In that regard, the national court is required to make an interpretation in accordance with Directive 1999/44, including, as necessary, amending established case-law if that law is based on an interpretation of national law which is incompatible with the objectives of that directive;
2. Article 3(2) to (4) of Directive 1999/44 must be interpreted as meaning that the consumer's right to the bringing of goods, acquired under a distance contract, into conformity 'free of charge' does not include the seller's obligation to pay the cost of transporting those goods, for the purposes of bringing them into conformity, to the seller's place of business, unless the fact that the consumer must advance those costs constitutes such a burden as to deter him from asserting his rights, which it is for the national court to ascertain;
3. The combined provisions of Article 3(3) and the second indent of Article 3(5) of Directive 1999/44 are to be interpreted as meaning that, in a situation such as that at issue in the main proceedings, a consumer who has informed the vendor of the non-conformity of goods acquired under a distance contract, the transport of which to the seller's place of business was likely to cause a significant inconvenience to him, and who has made the goods available to the seller at his home for them to be brought into conformity, is entitled to rescission of the contract as a result of the failure to compensate him within a reasonable time, if the seller has failed to take any adequate steps to bring those goods into conformity, including that of informing the consumer of the place where those goods are to be made available to it for it to bring them into conformity. In that regard, it is for the national court, by means of an interpretation in conformity with Directive 1999/44, to ensure the right of that consumer to rescission of the contract.

Parties

Appellant: Boudewijn Schokker (represented by: T. Martin and S. Orlandi, avocats)

Form of order sought

The appellant claims that the Court should:

- set aside the order of 8 February 2019 in Case T-817/17, Schokker v EASA;
- refer the case back to the General Court; and
- reserve the costs.

Grounds of appeal and main arguments

The appellant claims, first, that the General Court erred in law by dismissing the action on a ground that it had raised of its own motion and erroneously categorised as ‘manifest’. When it did so, the General Court infringed Article 126 of its Rules of Procedure and the appellant’s rights of defence.

The appellant submits, second, that the General Court erred in law by concluding that a verification of the grounds for the withdrawal of the offer of employment at issue was irrelevant, as an offer of employment can, in any case, be withdrawn at any moment without being subject to any conditions.

1. Must the term ‘foodstuffs for human consumption’ used in point 1 of Annex III to the 2006 VAT Directive <sup>(1)</sup> be interpreted as covering, in accordance with Article 2 of Regulation (EC) No 178/2002 <sup>(2)</sup> of the European Parliament and of the Council of 28 January 2002 laying down the general principles and requirements of food law, any substance or product, whether processed, partially processed or unprocessed, intended to be, or reasonably expected to be ingested by humans?

If this question is answered in the negative, how must that term then be defined?

2. If edible or potable products cannot be regarded as foodstuffs for human consumption, on the basis of which criteria must it then be assessed whether such products can be regarded as products normally used to supplement foodstuffs or as a substitute for foodstuffs?

Questions referred

1. Can established indirect unequal treatment on grounds of religion within the meaning of Article 2(2)(b) of Directive 2000/78/EC, <sup>(1)</sup> resulting from an internal rule of a private undertaking, be justifiable only if, according to that rule, it is prohibited to wear any visible sign of religious, political or other philosophical beliefs, and not only such signs as are prominent and large-scale?
2. If Question 1 is answered in the negative:
  - (a) Is Article 2(2)(b) of Directive 2000/78/EC to be interpreted as meaning that the rights derived from Article 10 of the Charter of Fundamental Rights of the European Union and from Article 9 of the European Convention for the Protection of Human Rights and Fundamental Freedoms may be taken into account in the examination of whether established indirect unequal treatment on grounds of religion is justifiable on the basis of an internal rule of a private undertaking which prohibits the wearing of prominent, large-scale signs of religious, political or other philosophical beliefs?

- (b) Is Article 2(2)(b) of Directive 2000/78/EC to be interpreted as meaning that national rules of constitutional status which protect freedom of religion may be taken into account as more favourable provisions within the meaning of Article 8(1) of Directive 2000/78/EC in the examination of whether established indirect unequal treatment on grounds of religion is justifiable on the basis of an internal rule of a private undertaking which prohibits the wearing of prominent, large-scale signs of religious, political or other philosophical beliefs?

3. If Questions 2(a) and 2(b) are answered in the negative:

In the examination of an instruction based on an internal rule of a private undertaking which prohibits the wearing of prominent, large-scale signs of religious, political or other philosophical beliefs, must national rules of constitutional status which protect freedom of religion be set aside because of primary EU law, even if primary EU law, such as, for example, Article 16 of the Charter of Fundamental Rights, recognises national laws and practices?

1. (a) Is Regulation (EC) No 1013/2006 of the European Parliament and of the Council of 14 June 2006 on shipments of waste, (<sup>1</sup>) in particular Annex III in conjunction with entry B 3020 of Annex IX to the Basel Convention, (<sup>2</sup>) to be interpreted as meaning that the indents contained in that entry are various single entries for the purposes of Regulation No 1013/2006?

- (b) If Question 1(a) is answered in the negative:

Does entry B 3020 cover mixed paper and paperboard waste, which — like the waste at issue in the main proceedings — in addition to lightweight paper, paperboard and cardboard packaging, also contains liquid packaging board made of laminated paperboard?

2. If Question 1(b) is answered in the affirmative:

- (a) Is entry B 3020 or the fourth indent thereof to be interpreted as meaning that it requires absolute freedom from foreign material, in the sense that the classification of waste under that entry is precluded if the waste — regardless of its volume and potential danger — contains materials other than waste and scrap of paper or paperboard (foreign materials)?

- (b) If Question 2(a) is answered in the negative:

Can a proportion of foreign material in waste, in particular on account of its volume, also preclude classification under entry B 3020 or the fourth indent thereof, if the conditions of the so-called chapeau of Annex III to Regulation 1013/2006 have not been met, that is to say, the waste is contaminated by other materials to an extent which does not increase the risks associated with the waste sufficiently to render it appropriate for submission to the procedure of prior written notification and consent, when taking into account the hazardous characteristics listed in Annex III to Directive 2008/98/EC, <sup>(3)</sup> and does not prevent the recovery of the waste in an environmentally sound manner?

3. If Question 1(b) is answered in the negative:

- (a) Is point 3(g) of Annex IIIA to Regulation No 1013/2006 to be interpreted as meaning that it requires absolute freedom from foreign material, in the sense that the classification of a mixture of waste under that entry is precluded if the mixture — regardless of its volume and potential danger — contains waste other than the waste referred to in the first three indents of entry B 3020 (foreign materials)?

- (b) If Question 3(a) is answered in the negative:

Can foreign materials which, in any event, do not preclude classification under point 3(g) of Annex IIIA to Regulation No 1013/2006, also be waste which, viewed in isolation, would be classified under the fourth indent of entry B 3020?

Questions referred

1. Is Article 16 of the Charter of Fundamental Rights of the European Union, which governs the right to have the freedom to conduct a business in the EU legal order, to be interpreted as meaning that it precludes a national provision such as Paragraph 18 of the Prehodni i zaklyuchitelni razporedbi na Zakona za izmenenie i dopalnenie na zakona za energetikata (Transitional and final provisions of the Law amending and supplementing the Law on energy, 'the PZR ZIDZE'), pursuant to which, despite the fact that an agreement has been entered into and a contractual relationship exists — aspects that are subject to special provisions of the applicable law — one of the fundamental elements of the agreement (the price) is changed in favour of one of the contracting parties by legislative act?
2. Is the principle of legal certainty to be interpreted as meaning that it precludes the redefinition of legal relationships that have already been established between private legal entities or between the State and private legal entities on the basis of special provisions if such redefinition has an adverse effect on the legitimate expectations of the legal entities governed by private law and rights already acquired by them?
3. Having regard to the judgment of the Court of Justice of 10 September 2009, Plantanol (C-201/08, EU:C:2009:539), is the principle of the protection of legitimate expectations, as a fundamental principle of EU law, to be interpreted as meaning that it precludes a Member State from changing the applicable legal regime for the generation of electricity from renewable sources without a sufficient guarantee of predictability by prematurely withdrawing measures provided for by law which are aimed at promoting the generation of electricity from renewable sources and are linked to long-term power purchase agreements, contrary to the conditions under which private actors have made investments in the generation of electricity from renewable sources and entered into long-term power purchase agreements with State-regulated electricity suppliers?
4. Having regard to recitals 8 and 14 in the preamble to the directive, are Articles 3 and 4 of Directive 2009/28/EC <sup>(1)</sup> on the promotion of the use of energy from renewable sources to be interpreted as meaning that they oblige Member States to guarantee legal certainty for investors in the area of generation of electricity from renewable sources, including solar energy, by means of national measures for implementing the directive?

If that question is answered in the affirmative: Is a national provision such as Paragraph 18 PZR ZIDZE, which significantly changes the preferential conditions for the purchase of electricity from renewable sources, even for long-term agreements which have already been entered into for the purchase of electricity from such sources in accordance with the originally adopted national measures for implementing the directive, permissible pursuant to Articles 3 and 4 in conjunction with recitals 8 and 14 of Directive 2009/28?

5. How is the term 'Member State' to be interpreted for the purposes of applying EU law at a national level? Having regard to the judgment of the Court of Justice of 12 July 1990, Foster and Others (C-188/89, EU:C:1990:313) and the subsequent judgments of the Court of Justice in that area of case-law, does this term also cover the providers of a service of general economic interest (electricity supply), such as the defendant company in the pending court proceedings, which have been made responsible for providing that service under conditions governed by law pursuant to a measure adopted by a State authority and under the supervision of that authority?

Form of order sought

The Commission claims that the Court should:

- Declare that, by restricting the fixing of sale prices of agricultural and food products, having particular regard to Article 3(2)(u) of the a mezőgazdasági és élelmiszeripari termékek vonatkozásában a beszállítókkal szemben alkalmazott tisztességtelen forgalmazói magatartás tilalmáról szóló, 2009. évi XCV. törvény (Law XCV of 2009 prohibiting unfair trading practices by suppliers in respect of agricultural and food products), Hungary has failed to fulfil its obligations under Article 34 of the Treaty on the Functioning of the European Union and Regulation (EU) No 1308/2013 of the European Parliament and of the Council of 17 December 2013 establishing a common organisation of the markets in agricultural products; <sup>(1)</sup>
- Order Hungary to pay the costs.

Pleas in law and main arguments

Law XCV of 2009 prohibiting unfair trading practices by suppliers in respect of agricultural and food products ('the Tfmvt') introduced sector-specific provisions in relation to the fixing of the retail prices of the products in question.

The Commission submits that Article 3(2)(u) of the Tfmvt does not refer to the characteristics of agricultural and food products, but solely to their selling arrangements, and must therefore be regarded as a provision relating to sales arrangements within the meaning of the Keck and Mithouard judgment (see judgment of 24 November 1993, Keck and Mithouard, Joined Cases C-267/91 and C-268/91, EU:C:1993:905). In analysing the effects of that measure, it can be said to be a measure having equivalent effect to a quantitative restriction on trade between Member States within the meaning of Article 34 TFEU.

According to the Commission, Article 3(2)(u) of the Tfmvt does not in fact affect the sale of domestic and imported products in equal measure, and is neither an adequate nor proportionate measure with regard to any legitimate aim connected to it.

- first, in so far as it results in depriving a third-country national, staying illegally on the territory of a Member State, of provision, in so far as possible, for his basic needs pending resolution of the action for suspension and annulment that he has brought in his own name as the representative of his child, who was at that time a minor, against a decision ordering them to leave the territory of a Member State;

Parties

Appellant: Pometon SpA (represented by: E. Fabrizi, V. Veneziano and A. Molinaro, lawyers)

Other party to the proceedings: European Commission

Form of order sought

The appellant claims that the Court of Justice should:

principally, set aside the judgment under appeal in so far as it rejected the pleas in law seeking annulment of the contested decision in its entirety and, consequently, annul the contested decision;

in the alternative:

- set aside the judgment under appeal in so far as the General Court unfairly found that Pometon's alleged participation in the alleged cartel had not been interrupted during the period from 18 November 2005 to 20 March 2007 and, accordingly, in the exercise of its unlimited jurisdiction, reduce the financial penalty imposed on Pometon;
- in any event, in the exercise of its unlimited jurisdiction, reduce the financial penalty imposed on Pometon on account of the General Court having failed to observe the principle of equal treatment; in any event, order the Commission to pay the appellant's legal fees and any other costs and charges connected with the present proceedings and the proceedings before the General Court.

Grounds of appeal and main arguments

In support of the appeal, the appellant relies on four grounds of appeal.

1. First ground of appeal: The General Court misapplied fundamental principles of EU law, namely the principle of the presumption of innocence and the principle of a fair trial, by failing to criticise the Commission's failure to observe those fundamental principles.
2. Second ground of appeal: The General Court failed to observe the principles governing the burden of proof and failed to apply the principle of the presumption of innocence when it confirmed the Commission's findings that Pometon had taken part in the alleged cartel. It also gave contradictory and/or insufficient reasoning in that regard.

The General Court found the appellant culpable on the basis of assumptions and 'likelihoods', indicating in quite generic terms the documents on which those assumptions were based.

3. Third ground of appeal: The General Court misapplied the principles governing the burden of proof and failed to apply the principle of the presumption of innocence when it held that the Commission had demonstrated to the requisite legal standard that Pometon had not interrupted its participation in the infringement during the (approximately) 16-month period from 18 November 2005 to 20 March 2007, even though, for that period, it did not have evidence of collusive contact. It also gave contradictory and/or insufficient reasoning in that regard.
  4. Fourth ground of appeal: The General Court failed to observe the principle of equal treatment when setting the amount of the fine imposed on Pometon and provided contradictory and/or insufficient reasoning in that regard. In particular, the General Court recalculated the amount of the penalty imposed on the appellant by identifying a percentage reduction of the basic amount of the fine that was not consistent with the percentage reductions granted by the Commission to the settling parties, and did not provide objective justification for such treatment.

Action brought on 24 May 2019 — Gollnisch v Parliament*(Case T-319/19)

(2019/C 255/58)

Language of the case: FrenchPartiesApplicant: Bruno Gollnisch (Villiers-le-Mahieu, France) (represented by B. Bonnefoy-Claudet, lawyer)Defendant: European ParliamentForm of order sought

The applicant claims that the Court should:

- annul the European Parliament Bureau Decision of 10 December 2018, together with the decision of 26 March 2019 of the President of the European Parliament rejecting the internal appeal brought before him against that decision;
- declare invalid all the acts, modifications, notifications, decisions and deductions resulting from that decision;
- award the applicant the sum of EUR 6 500 for the costs incurred in preparing the present action;
- order the European Parliament to pay the entirety of the costs.

Pleas in law and main arguments

In support of the action, the applicant relies on six pleas in law.

1. First plea in law, alleging infringement of Article 27 of the Statute for Members. That provision prohibits the Bureau from prejudicing acquired rights or future entitlements of parliamentarians.
  2. Second plea in law, alleging infringement of Article 76(3) of the Implementing measures for the Statute for Members. According to the applicant, the abovementioned Article 27 of the Statute for Members has the effect of guaranteeing the integrity of the provisions of the Implementing measures for the Statute for Members in relation to the pension fund, thereby preventing any change to their structure.
  3. Third plea in law, alleging infringement of Article 223(2) TEU and incompetence on the part of the Bureau, in so far as it introduced a tax on the payment of the pensions of former Members which it was not entitled to do, since any decisions on the taxation of parliamentarians fall within the competence of the Council.
  4. Fourth plea in law, alleging infringement of the principles of legal certainty and legitimate expectations. The contested act was adopted in breach of the undertakings and texts which constitute reliable assurances and guarantees that no change may be made to the voluntary pension fund scheme.
  5. Fifth plea in law, alleging infringement of the principle of proportionality. The Parliament, which is alone responsible for the financial situation created, adopted unfair and insufficient measures on the pretext of addressing it.
  6. Sixth plea in law, alleging infringement of the principle of equal treatment. The contested decision creates unequal treatment between Members who pay contributions and those who do not, as well as between Members who have already drawn a pension and those who have not.

Action brought on 30 May 2019 — Mubarak v Council*(Case T-327/19)

(2019/C 255/59)

*Language of the case: EnglishParties

Applicant: Mohamed Hosni Elsayed Mubarak (Cairo, Egypt) (represented by: B. Kennelly QC, J. Pobjoy, Barrister, G. Martin, C. Enderby Smith and F. Holmey, Solicitors)

Defendant: Council of the European Union

Form of order sought

The applicant claims that the Court should:

- annul Council Decision (CFSP) 2019/468 of 21 March 2019 <sup>(1)</sup> and Council Implementing Regulation (EU) 2019/459 of 21 March 2019 <sup>(2)</sup>, insofar as they apply to the applicant; and
- order the defendant to pay the costs.

Pleas in law and main arguments

In support of the action, the applicant relies on two pleas in law.

1. First plea in law, alleging that the defendant had failed to verify that the Egyptian authorities would have respected the applicant's fundamental European Union rights, including Articles 47 and 48 of the Charter of Fundamental Rights of the European Union, in the context of the proceedings and investigations relied upon by the defendant.
2. Second plea in law, alleging that the defendant made errors of assessment in considering that the criterion for listing the applicant in Article 1 of Council Decision 2011/172/CFSP <sup>(3)</sup> and Article 2 of Council Regulation (EU) No 270/2011 of 21 March 2011 <sup>(4)</sup> would have been satisfied.

Action brought on 4 June 2019 — Google and Alphabet v Commission*(Case T-334/19)

(2019/C 255/60)

*Language of the case: EnglishParties

Applicants: Google LLC (Mountain View, California, United States), Alphabet, Inc. (Mountain View) (represented by: C. Jeffs, lawyer, J. Staples, Solicitor, D. Beard QC and J. Williams, Barrister)

Defendant: European Commission

Form of order sought

The applicants claim that the Court should:

- to annul (in whole or in part) the Commission's decision of 20 March 2019 in Case COMP/AT.40411 — Google Search (AdSense);
- consequently, or in the alternative, to annul or reduce the fine imposed on the applicants in exercise of the Court's unlimited jurisdiction; and
- in any event, order the Commission to bear the applicants' costs and expenses in connection with these proceedings.

Pleas in law and main arguments

The present action seeks the annulment of the Commission's decision of 20 March 2019 relating to a proceeding under Article 102 TFEU and Article 54 of the EEA Agreement (AT.40411 — Google Search (AdSense)). The applicants seek annulment of each of the three findings of infringement, the finding that they amounted to a single continuous infringement and the imposition of a fine.

In support of the action, they rely on five pleas in law.

1. First plea in law, alleging that the contested decision errs in its assessments of market definition and thus dominance. In particular, the contested decision errs in finding that:
  - search ads and non-search ads do not compete;
  - directly sold ads and intermediated ads do not compete.
2. Second plea in law, alleging that the contested decision errs in finding that Google's so-called exclusivity clause ('Site-Exclusivity Clause') was abusive. The contested decision:
  - mischaracterizes the Site-Exclusivity Clause as an exclusive supply obligation;
  - errs in finding that the decision was not required to analyze if the Site-Exclusivity Clause was likely to have anti-competitive effects;
  - fails to demonstrate that the Site-Exclusivity clause, however characterized, was likely to restrict competition.
3. Third plea in law, alleging that the contested decision errs in finding that Google's premium placement and minimum Google ads clause ('Placement Clause') was abusive. The contested decision:
  - mischaracterizes the Placement Clause;
  - fails to demonstrate that the Placement Clause was likely to restrict competition.

4. Fourth plea in law, alleging that the contested decision errs in finding that Google's authorising equivalent ads clause ('Modification Clause') was abusive. The contested decision:
    - does not demonstrate that the Modification Clause was likely to restrict competition;
    - alternatively wrongly ignores that the Modification Clause was objectively justified because it protected website users, publishers, advertisers and Google and/or that any foreclosure effect was outweighed by the advantages of the clause.
  5. Fifth plea in law, alleging that the contested decision errs in imposing a fine and in calculating that fine. The contested decision:
    - fails to consider Google's lack of intent or negligence and that the Commission selected the case for commitments;
    - alternatively errs in calculating the fine;
    - further or alternatively does not respect the principle of proportionality.

Action brought on 31 May 2019 — BZ v Commission

(Case T-336/19)

(2019/C 255/61)

Language of the case: French

Parties

Applicant: BZ (represented by: C. Mourato, lawyer)

Defendant: European Commission

Form of order sought

The applicant claims that the Court should:

- Annul the European Commission's decision of 25 July 2018 to dismiss the applicant in response to a report on the probationary period before the end of that period;
- Order the Commission to pay the applicant the following separate sums by way of damages:
  - EUR 5 000 in respect of non-material harm caused by the dismissal decision;
  - EUR 5 000 in respect of damage to reputation caused by the dismissal decision;
  - EUR 10 000 in respect of material harm caused by the adverse effects on the applicant's state of health following her dismissal;
  - EUR 58 900 in respect of material harm linked to the loss of income as a result of her unlawful dismissal;

— Order the defendant to pay the costs of the proceedings, under Article 87 of the Rules of Procedure of the General Court.

Pleas in law and main arguments

In support of the action, the applicant relies on five pleas in law.

1. First plea in law, alleging infringement of the procedural guarantees in respect of administrative and disciplinary investigations, and infringement of the rights of the defence and of the presumption of innocence.
2. Second plea in law, alleging infringement of Article 84(1) and (3) of the Conditions of Employment of Other Servants and of the rights connected with the probationary period and a consequent manifest error of assessment by the administration.
3. Third plea in law, alleging infringement of Article 84(2) of the Conditions of Employment of Other Servants and of the principle of proportionality.
4. Fourth plea in law, alleging infringement of the principle of equal treatment.
5. Fifth plea in law, concerning a claim for special damages in response to the abovementioned irregularities.
